CONSUMER GUIDE

When selecting commercial floorcoverings there are three main criteria to consider – performance, appearance and the ease of maintenance. Often, commercial floor coverings are chosen simply on their aesthetic appeal. In many cases, this choice can end in a costly replacement due to its lack of performance, limited lifespan and difficulty in cleaning. The Autex range is manufactured from solution dyed polypropylene fibre using a unique non-woven manufacturing process. This combination provides a resilient finish that will maintain its goods looks through many years of service.

Solution dyed polypropylene is a closed cell fibre which does not absorb moisture, therefore almost completely eliminating long term stains. Furthermore it has 10 times greater abrasion resistance over wool, resulting in a durable finish. The non-woven manufacturing process ensures the carpet will never zip or fray, completely eliminating unsightly and dangerous joins and edges.

For functionality and performance, Autex carpets are the logical choice.

Avondale Avondale is durable and hard wearing carpet with a history of proven performance in commercial flooring. Its classic combination of a fine-ribbed finish with a selection of contemporary colours allows for greater design flexibility.

Good looks are essential but performance is paramount. This is where Avondale stands head and shoulders above the rest. The unique construction provides a durable stain resistant finish without sacrificing underfoot comfort and appearance. Avondale is long trusted by architects and designers to withstand the very hardest wearing environment, including schools, retail outlets, offices and healthcare facilities.
